

Communications. Cloud Technology. Peace of Mind.

BullsEye recognizes Busker Communications' dedication to excellence in CX (Client Experience). Read how this partnership came to be, and how it's become a synchronous relationship since its inception.

How we met:

BullsEye was introduced to Busker Communications (BCI) when an opportunity arose for the installation of VoIP phone lines for a senior living facility.

Why our partnership works:

In business for over two decades, BCI has been in continuous ownership by its founder and namesake, Bobby Busker. With sixty dedicated employees on staff, the company loyalty is high and the work ethic among the team is strong. As self-proclaimed "cabling specialists", the team at BCI is committed to delivering pro-active and organized services to ensure the cabling they deliver is certified and correct. Together with BullsEye, both organizations strive to ensure excellence in products, services and support.

What BCI had to say:

While we know the quality and certification of our services will be to the level of excellence our company is known for, we also expect the suppliers we bring to our clients to be of the same caliber. We bring a well-established reputation for our services to the table – since we are the face of the project to the client, the impression is important. What impressed us with BullsEye the most was both the 'Can-Do' & 'Get-it-Done' attitudes of the team. The pre & post install support was superb. BullsEye takes a true Partner approach, which ultimately helps us to deliver excellence in service to our clients.
